

ROSICRUCIAN DIGEST SUBMISSIONS

Rosicrucian Digest invites submissions of original historical studies, reflective essays, book reviews, poetry, original translations of public domain materials, and other offerings relevant to the subject matter of our thematic issues. Material submission deadlines are as follows:

Essenes	submissions due August 15, 2007
Orphic Mysteries	submissions due January 15, 2008
Delphic Mysteries	submissions due August 15, 2008
Pythagoreans	submissions due January 15, 2009
Eleusinian Mysteries	submissions due August 15, 2009

Guidelines:

- Materials should be written in English. Articles and essays should have approximately 1,000 - 2,000 words; however, shorter and longer submissions may also be considered. Shorter works (book reviews, poetry, etc.) need not observe the word count guidelines. Articles and essays should begin with a brief introduction.
- All language should be inclusive gender-neutral. Use active voice and positive language whenever possible and avoid Rosicrucian jargon or technical terms — Rosicrucian Digest is a public magazine.
- Do not copy or cite material directly from the Rosicrucian Monographs.
- If the submission includes illustrations with permission for reproduction, or in the public domain, please include these in the article, with clear and explanatory captions.
- If the article or essay has references, please format them as bibliographic style endnotes, and a bibliography may also be included if appropriate to the submission. Please use the Chicago Manual of Style (Turabian) for references.
- To submit your paper, please e-mail it as a MS Word or RTF file to editorinchief@rosicrucian.org.

**Submission to Rosicrucian Digest implies that the article or other contribution has not been published elsewhere, submitted to another publication, and will not be submitted to another publication during the time it is under consideration by Rosicrucian Digest. Materials submitted will not be returned and articles may be reprinted in other jurisdictions.*

✎ CALL TO ARTISTS ✎

Artists are invited to submit original works of art on themes based on the topics for consideration for publication. A low-resolution electronic version of submissions of artwork should be sent to editorinchief@rosicrucian.org for consideration. If your work of art is selected for publication, we will arrange with you to obtain a high-resolution version suitable for printing. Themes and due dates for upcoming issues are listed above. For any questions, please contact our Research Library at librarian@rosicrucian.org or (408) 947-3695.